A Message from . . .

OUR SUPERINTENDENT

TO THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1964:

When a ship is ready to sail, a "Blue Peter" flag is raised on the mast. This is a sign to all that the ship is about to leave port. Just as the "Blue Peter" flag has significance to the public, so does the cap and gown that you wear on the day of graduation. This signifies that you are about to undertake the great and wondrous voyage of life on your own.

A ship needs charts and maps so that the Captain will know where to go. Your maps and charts come from the education you have gained in school.

Just as the Captain must use his judgment in deciding the course he will take, so it is up to you to make the best use of the knowledge at your command.

You will have to select your course because you cannot go everywhere at one time. A happy ending will be the outcome if you use skill in charting your course.

My best wishes go with you as you set sail on this sea of adventure which will present the greatest challenge you have ever encountered.

Sincerely yours,

A. G. Turechek

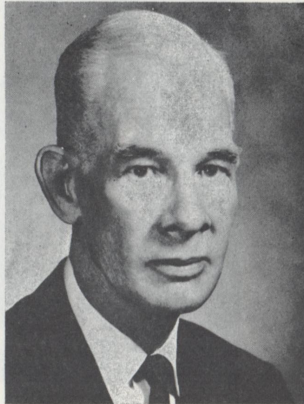

ARMIN G. TURECHEK, Superintendent

Messages from . . .

TO THE CLASS OF 1964:

As you leave the confines of this school you will find yourself suddenly faced by a challenge—out in the open, on your own, so to speak. Take with you always a sense of duty and a feeling of responsibility; a determination to meet life daily with character, confidence and courage. In return you will experience a feeling of gratitude and satisfaction and happiness, and this School, of which you are now and evermore a part, will have had its reward.

JAMES R. KIRKLEY
Assistant Principal
Department for the Deaf

TO THE SENIORS:

We pray that our work with you these past few years has inspired and equipped you to continue seeking Truths and to not be satisfied with mediocrity.

GOVERNOR LOVE, Members of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Turechek, parents, teachers, and friends: I have the great pleasure and honor of welcoming you this afternoon.

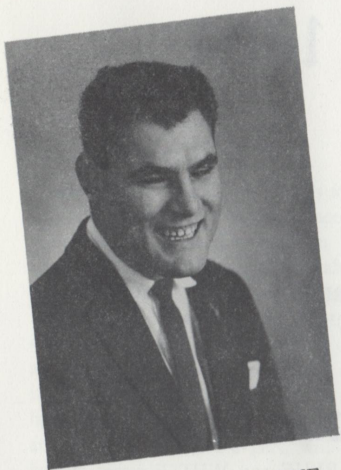

We, the class of 1964, have arrived at the end of our school life here. This is a day of happiness for all of us because we have reached one of our goals in life. It is also a day of sadness because we leave this school we love and the friends who have meant so much to us.

Each of us in the graduating class is truly grateful to our beautiful state of Colorado and to our beloved country for our education. To all of you, we express our deep appreciation for your presence here. It is through your efforts that our graduation is made possible this afternoon.

My classmates and I bid you welcome. We are happy to have you with us today.

VALEDICTORY

by DANIEL REYNER

MEMBERS of the Board, Mr. Turechek, Faculty, Parents, Fellow-Students and Friends: We are gathered here today for a very special occasion. This is not only a graduation of a few students from this school; it is a giant step in our lives toward success. Even though it seems to have an air of sadness, it really is a happy occasion. For this is going to be the very beginning of a new way of life for us from here on.

I am not going to talk about this class that is leaving now, but to the classes that will be leaving in the future. Though you may not know it, you have a lot to be thankful for: a fine school, excellent teachers, and a wonderful guidance department. Why not make full use of these, which are your stepping stones to success? In other words, your success depends upon the way you act and learn while here. You must get all you can out of the courses you are taking; but you can't do this without putting all you can into them. This applies to both academic and vocational courses.

Getting a diploma is one of the biggest things in our lives, but it is only a stepping stone to future successes. When once you get what you need, there is still more to do. The next step is knowing how to put this to good use. First you must choose a field in which you know you can do well and be happy. Only this way can you be assured of success.

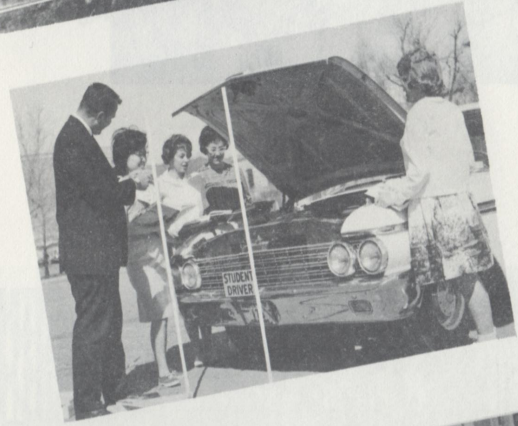

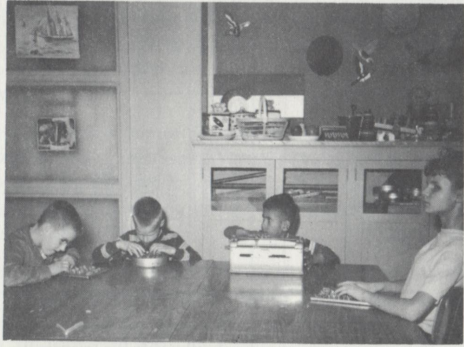

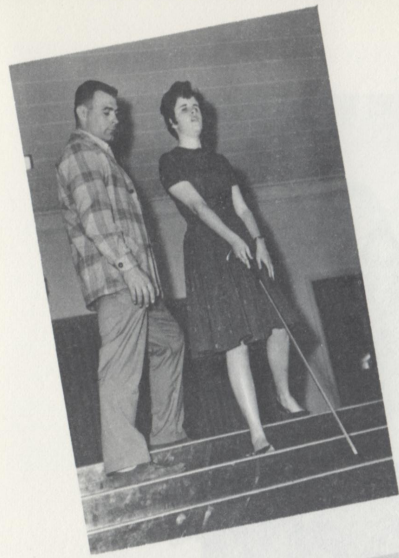

Patience is also of vital importance to all of us. Success will not be waiting just around the corner for any of us. When I leave here, I expect quite a few hard falls before I reach my goal, and I only hope that I will have the patience to meet and overcome all difficulties.

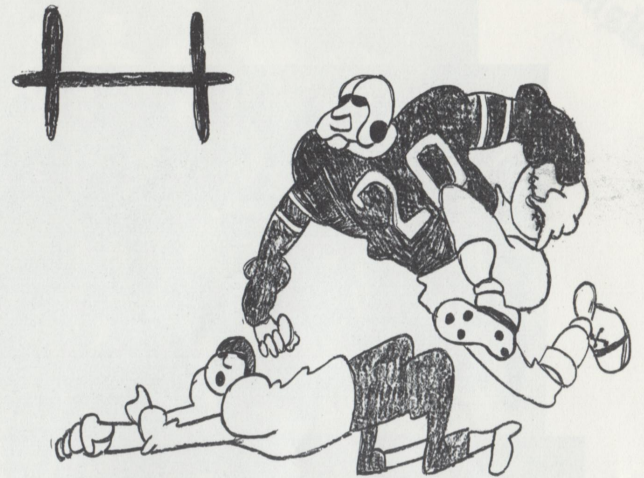

All our achievements would not have been possible if there weren't so many fine people on the staff and faculty of this school. On behalf of the class of nineteen hundred sixty-four, I would like to thank all the teachers for the time and efforts they have spent teaching us through the years, and the house parents for developing for us a proper way of living together. As we go on through the years we all hope the school can be proud of us.

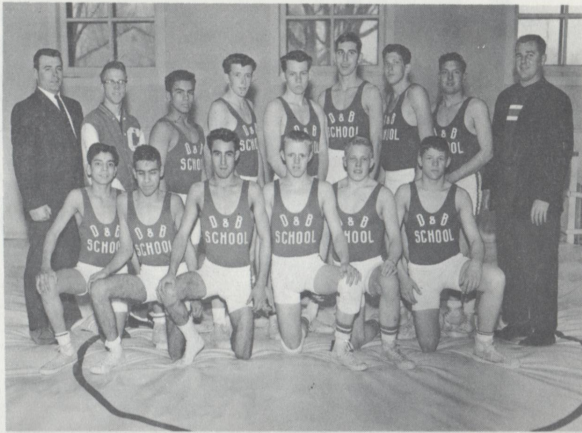

Thank you.
